Smart searchers are selective on where they source their data. The default is SuperSearch, but if you are looking for a physical item held here at the ANU, move to the Catalogue Search button. Here you will find all the items held in the Library that may not be found under SuperSearch.

Your book isn't in the catalogue?

Bonus+ allows you to request a book from 11 other university libraries in Australia and New Zealand directly - click on the icon in the catalogue to request a book - BONUS+ or search in Bonus Plus and just hit the button to request an item. You can find over 7 million books through this service.

Research & Learn!

The ANU Library webpage provides you with more assistance than searching our catalogue. Start with our Research & Learning tab on the menu bar. Here you will find specialist training in our 'How to guides', Subject guides and Pulse online training and more. Take a little time to explore. Our Copyright pages have also been updated with the changes that came into effect in January 2019.

The ANU Library is undertaking a program of digitising as much of our Archives and theses as possible. To see what other quirky and interesting gems that have been hidden in our Archives, visit the Library's News & Events for our Digitisation Update, or visit the Archives pages and exhibitions.
