This symposium will hear presentations from speakers who will discuss the implications of technological threats and opportunities presented by technological change. The implications of breaches involving the National Data Bank (NDB) scheme introduced in Australia's research sector will also be considered. The symposium will explore how the Australian Research Data Commons (ARDC) is enabling new research, and how this is changing the landscape of the humanities.

VENUE:

Details

ANU Educational Fellowship Scheme.

Tales of the unexpected: why archival research is enjoyable, though labor-intensive, providing many original and unexpected outcomes. Things aren't always what they appear to be.

From HR

Publishers and initiatives to aid with research into this disease.

Awards and prizes

Pink Ribbon Morning Tea

At the Morning Tea we ask for:

• items to support the cause
• pink to support the cause
• raffle tickets

Prize for the Pinkest Person will be awarded through presale and on the day.

The Australian National University, Canberra | CRICOS Provider : 00120C | ABN : 52 234 063 906